Haliburton Craft Brewers Fest right around the corner

VANESSA BALINTEC

County Life Staff

The second annual Haliburton Craft Brewers Fest is fast approaching, bringing along a day full of family activities, traditional craft brewed beers, and music for everyone to enjoy.

"The focus for us always is that we are a service club," said Gail Stelter, volunteer for the Brewers Fest committee. "The beer fest is definitely a fundraiser for the Haliburton District Lions Club but it also is a wonderful community event. All the money that we raise at the Haliburton Craft Brewers Fest goes back into the community."

The fest highlights the art of small and independent craft brewers in the midst of a variety of foods and live music played by local musicians. It will be a family and pet friendly event, with eight craft brewers, two craft coolers, and six food vendors.

This year, games for both adults and families are available for guests to enjoy. According to Stelter, adult games will be ongoing through the day, while a play area for children includes face-painting and balloon twisting, a fish pond, a parachute, bubbles, and boat races.

"Also near the games area, are ice cream, free popcorn, and a couple of young entrepreneurs who will be selling candy floss as well," said Stelter. "We're making it a beer fest, but a little bit of a fair."

The Haliburton Craft Brewers Fest will take place on Saturday, July 20 from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. at Head Lake Park. Admission is $20 per person, which includes four beer tokens and a four-ounce pour glass. Photo ID must be presented to gain admission. For non-drinkers, the admission is $10, which includes four water tokens. Tickets for children aged eight to 18 are $5, while children under 7 are free.

For more information, visit haliburtoncraftbrewersfest.com.

The first Haliburton Craft Brewers Fest welcomed crowds to Head Lake Park in Haliburton. This year's event is planned for July 20 at Head Lake Park. /SUE TIFFIN Staff

Nature's Place beaver exhibit makes learning fun

SUE TIFFIN
County Life Staff

After spending time at a new interactive exhibition devoted to beavers in Nature's Place, Minden's nature interpretive centre, children and their families will leave knowing a lot more about the ecosystem engineers and their importance to our environment.

"This is what we want to emphasize about them, that they are the creators of the wetlands, resulting in biodiverse habitats," said Laurie Carmount, Minden Hills Cultural Centre curator. "That is absolutely the most critical thing about beavers, we just cannot emphasize and underline it enough. To change people's attitude about beavers is really important. If you want fresh water and you want wetlands ... People [will say], oh, it's a rodent and there are so many of them around and they're going to flood your place. Yes, they're going to take down 200 trees, but there's a reason why they're doing that, and we should realize that we have to accommodate them and not the other way around, because they're going to bring about what we need."

At the first station in the exhibition, visitors can actually role-play as beavers, crafting a face mask and tail costume out of materials they can wear as they play and learn. After transforming into the rodent – among the largest in the world, often weighing more than small children themselves – kids can climb into a beaver lodge, constructed by Carmount, Mike Stamp and local artist Chris Hanson.

Laurie Carmount, curator at Minden Hills Cultural Centre, hopes visitors to Nature's Place will learn about the importance of the beaver as an ecosystem engineer with a new, interactive exhibition opened at the nature interpretive centre that includes a beaver dam open to small explorers. /SUE TIFFIN Staff

"The people in the community are super great, everyone has come forward periodically and said, we have to do this, or we have to try that," said Carmount. "It's totally what we needed to bring this all together."

Inside the lodge, kids-turned-beavers can explore with sticks, a furry beaver puppet, and watch short videos on the beaver that are also projected on a wall outside the lodge for adults to take in.

"The films are really good because they're simplistic, but they really get the sense from that as to how important [beavers] are," said Carmount.

Carmount is visibly excited about the exhibition and what it offers, and has carefully thought out details surrounding the lodge that include a display featuring R.D. Lawrence's book, Paddy, a story about the naturalist author's experiences raising an orphan beaver, as well as original sketches of Lawrence's; a leather tail that mimics the warning sound created by a beaver's tail when it slaps on the water's surface; and the sound of running water that motivates beavers to work. A model beaver dam kit activity offers visitors the chance to try to recreate what a beaver does to hold water back, similar to when the turtle exhibition kept kids busy with a tunnel building station.

"We're trying to make it as interactive as possible, because we've come to realize computers are not the thing," said Carmount. "Kids are not interested so much in doing everything with computers, which everyone thought would be the case. They love interactive. Something where you're making, putting together, building ... we had the turtle tunnels here, they'd be there forever. They wouldn't even look at the iPads. The iPads didn't matter to them, they have them everywhere, but building a turtle tunnel, oh yeah."

"It's 100 per cent interactive, the kids can be in there, hopefully they'll learn some aspect of it when they walk away," said Carmount.

Nature's Place also showcases exhibitions for children and adults alike on the issues facing bees, turtles and bats; global food issues and how they affect us locally; a mineral display and an augmented reality hands-on sandbox, as well as an upcoming display on activist Greta Thunberg's advocacy for action to combat climate change.

Nature's Place nature interpretive centre is located at the Minden Hills Cultural Centre at 176 Bobcaygeon Road, and is open Thursday, Friday and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Admission is by donation.

Lily, an aging but formidable retiree, hires Michael, an acerbic dance instructor, to give her dance lessons in her condo in St. Petersburg Beach, Florida. Antagonism between a gay man and the wife of a Southern Baptist minister gives way to profound compatibility as they swing dance, tango, foxtrot, and cha-cha while sharing barbs and intimacies along with the dance steps. What Michael learns about Lily during the sixth lesson will require him to share his greatest gifts - loyalty and compassion.

Earthscapes: An Invitation to Travel

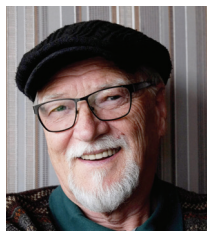
LOCAL CONTEMPORARY artist Laurie O'Reilly says that she's "an observer and visual storyteller" whose works are "always narrative driven." Put another way, she paints stories, and she's used those stories to create a new show at the Rails End Gallery called Earthscapes: An Invitation to Travel. O'Reilly describes the show as "physical layers that speak to our complex relationship with planet earth."

Earthscapes: Invitation to Travel is an intricate and somewhat complex show which is divided into four groupings: earth gifts, transition, contact and outcomes. There are 17 pieces in the presentation, ranging from such images as a butterfly, a montage of bleached bones, a nautilus-like illustration, and various depictions of our planet, to a realistic fish preserved in acrylic.



GEORGE FARRELL
On Arts/Culture

O'Reilly breaks down her show into various segments. Titles include: Transition, which deals with images of discarded objects that desecrate the environment; Walk on the Beach which depicts a plastic doll caught in a net; Cruise on the Ocean which portrays an entangled dolphin, and Over a Barrel, which is a photomontage of a rusty oil barrel in the woods. Some of the other titles are Earth Gifts, Earth Dance, Earth Bones and Earth Breath; while Voyage through Low Earth's Orbit has been Cancelled addresses the issue of garbage in space. The titles obviously leave no doubt that the show is about the earth and what the artist sees is happening to it.

O'Reilly has also incorporated a video into her exhibition. It explores the different sounds that can be made by rubbing a wet finger over the rim of a partially filled drinking glass. She then invites people to experiment with the sounds that ensue when various objects are dropped into the glass.

Some of the materials O'Reilly has used in Earthscapes: An Invitation to Travel are acrylic, encaustic (natural bees' wax and resin), as well as found objects. She also uses papier-mâché, manipulated photos, plywood, handmade photographic paper, floral detritus, waxed threads, canvas, shells, deer horn, magnets, and plastic dolphins. The results of so much diverse material are sculptures and installations that are both complex and thought-provoking.

Something that has bothered O'Reilly greatly over the years has been the desecration of the environment by the accumulated waste of generations, and on her hiking, paddling and walking forays into the countryside she has gathered the detritus which she's used as the "building blocks" for Earthscapes: An Invitation to Travel.

There's a tremendous amount of work involved in the creation of Earthscapes: An Invitation to Travel, though the show is perhaps unnecessarily complicated in its descriptive presentation. That aside, the images are powerful, and the show certainly deserves more than one visit. Children especially seem to be enamoured by the imagery. Earthscapes: An Invitation to Travel is on display at the Rails End Gallery, 23 York Street in Haliburton, until Aug. 29. Go see it. You won't be disappointed.

"Earth Skin," by Laurie O'Reilly is part of her exhibition at the Rails End Gallery called Earthscapes: An Invitation to Travel, which examines our complicated relationship with planet earth. /GEORGE FARRELL Special to County Life

Top 10 reasons not to fish at night

THERE ARE some people who are good at night fishing, but for most of us, casting and trolling at night can be frustrating at best. Here are 10 reasons why.

1. One long cast and you will be into a 20 minute fight with a birch tree.
2. That's how people get fishing flies in their hats.
3. Polarized glasses only make things worse.
4. You could spend an hour telling your life story to someone you left on the dock.
5. In the dark, worms have the advantage.
6. If both anglers wear head lamps then everyone is blind.
7. You have to listen closely to determine whether that splash was made by a big fish or your tackle box falling overboard.
8. It's easy to find the net, but not so easy to get out of it.
9. Night shift mosquitoes look at you as a rare treat.
10. After you use the flash on your camera to take a photo of an angler and fish, it's hard to tell which one is the walleye.

Staring down dusk

Something very godly adopted the sky at nine
Dragged its comb through the indigo
Pinched at its blues to tug out only white
Like cotton threads in a dark busy beak

I stood with grandkids, started words
But few arrived, with zero rush to leave
meadow for TV
Though bugs now churned and navigated
Tickling our ears, swimming in our eyes

From under this roiling sundown spider
With shaking veins and wishbone fingers
We three stared up, up, up
Bigger than sleepy book, bigger than snacks

Our very own page, our real summer movie
Nana said look, so we did
No two clouds are the same, I whispered
No two children, nor any two moments

By Deborah J Reed

This 12" by 12" canvas, titled "Supper, Boys!" by Deborah J Reed will be available for $100 on Art Squared's Sept. 27 opening night at the Rails End Gallery.

Festival of the August Moon cancelled for this year

CHAD INGRAM
County Life Staff

Minden's Festival of the August Moon is cancelled for this summer, but organizers are hoping to renew the popular event next year.

The bottom line is it requires more volunteers, and preferably some younger blood.

"We really need to rejuvenate ourselves," says Heather Ross, chairwoman of the festival's organizing committee, adding it was a shame to have to cancel. "It's just such a lovely sight at night."

Based on a Japanese ritual, the festival includes the painting of paper lanterns in memory of loved ones, which are then floated down the Gull River at dusk on the evening of the first full moon in August. The annual event also typically includes a number of activities on the lawn of the Wild Swan B&B, such as children's games, folk stories, a tea ceremony, music, tai chi and karate demonstrations, and traditional Japanese dancing.

This would have been the ninth year for the festival, which just needs more volunteers to make it happen.

"We're simply having a drop off in volunteers," Ross says. "We're all getting older."

She explains that health and energy issues among the volunteer base were what led to the cancellation of this year's event. The festival is financially sound, its two main sponsors in the past having been Subaru and Kawartha Credit Union.

"Our sponsors have been great," Ross says, explaining they essentially cover the overhead costs.

"We need people on the committee," she says, adding the committee needs to consist of seven or eight people in order to divvy up responsibilities and have them performed adequately.

In addition to the committee, she says there's a requirement for at least five or six additional people to assist with set-up and take-down on the day of the festival.

"We need bodies, and we need those bodies to have muscles," Ross says.

The festival will put out a call for volunteers for next year in early 2020. Ross says along with new volunteers, organizers are also looking to expand the event with new ideas.

Lake health seminar this weekend

The Lake Kashagawigamog Organization is hosting a half-day seminar called Love Your Lake.

The purpose of this event is to highlight the many factors that have a significant effect on lake health and what we can do to protect and enhance the quality of our lakes. With confirmed reports last year of blue-green algae in Haliburton County lakes, there is no time like the present to learn how to take action.

The event will take place Saturday, July 20, at the Minden Hills Community Centre beginning at 9 a.m. Speakers will include Rob Davis and Mike Rahme: Mysteries of your septic system; Julia Sutton: Naturalized shorelines and the use of native plants; and Alexandre Walsh: Recognition, prevention and control of invasive plant and animal species. There will also be a number of vendor booths.

The event is free for LKO members, tickets are $15 and admission is $20 at the door.

You can register online at ww.lko.ca. For more information or to register personally call Jim Bertram at 705-457-4697 or email treasurer@lko.ca or call Wendy Hampson at 705-286-6770 or email membership@lko.ca.

Canoe FM gets funky

VANESSA BALINTEC
County Life Staff

Mike Perry, new volunteer at Canoe FM, is hosting "Weekend Funk" every Saturday at 11 p.m. to Sunday 1 a.m. which started on July 13, marking the first live overnight show the station has hosted. DJ M.P. hopes to interact with listeners through song requests and texts, and looks forward to exploring funk with Haliburton County. /Submitted by Mike Perry

Volunteer radio station Canoe FM has added a new program Weekend Funk, featuring funk and soul music for the first live overnight show the station has hosted.

The show, which comes on every Saturday from 11 p.m. to Sunday 1 a.m., is hosted by new volunteer and Lindsay resident Mike Perry. The show boasts two parts: the first hour full of vibrant funk music to get listeners dancing, and the other hour, The Quiet Storm, showcasing slow jams and soulful sounds designed to relax the mind.

"It's a real honour to have a specialty show and to bring funky music to the people of Haliburton County," said Perry, who's been working with the station for months to get the show going. "This is really great because it's a hobby for me. I really enjoy radio work, and I've loved funky music since I was a kid. It helps my creative side – it's a little creative expression, which is always good to have in life."

Canoe FM had been looking for a lively Saturday evening show for some time and Perry's pitch was the right fit.

"My program committee a couple years ago, they were trying to find some kind of dance, fun music for a Saturday night because they felt that they wanted to try to attract, not necessarily a younger audience, but something that's not going to put people to sleep," said Canoe FM station manager Roxanne Casey.

"He was excited about doing something fun, upbeat, and funky. Mike said this is what he could offer, and we said that would be great."

Perry, a lawyer, social worker, and Kawartha Lakes Family Health Team's executive director, is passionate about old-school, live radio music, and will be looking to host contests and highlight local and Canadian artists during his two-hour show.

"I think everybody's funky down deep," said Perry and radio persona DJ M.P. "I think funky music speaks to that side of us that we all have that seeks expression and really gets us moving. This show really wants to put the fun in funk, and have people enjoy the music, get to know it better, and look a little bit at the messaging that's come out of the funk scene over the years."

Weekend Funk is hosted by DJ M.P. live every Saturday from 11 p.m. to Sunday 1 a.m. For more information, visit @wkndfunk and @thequietstrm on Twitter, and canoefm.com.

Tens of thousands raised for epilepsy research

JENN WATT
County Life Editor

More than $60,000 was raised through Katie's Run in Haliburton on July 6. The eighth annual event included a five-kilometre and 10-kilometre trail run as well as a family-friendly, wheelchair and stroller accessible 2.5 km walk/run.

Geri Woudstra, an event organizer and mother to Katie Woudstra, after whom the run is named, said the huge fundraising total was bittersweet.

"Many of those dollars were raised in memory of two very special people, Scott Van Gurven who died of SUDEP [sudden unexpected death in epilepsy] last year and Levi VandenBrink, Katie's beloved. Both the VandenBrink and Van Gurven family were a big part of this year's event," she said via email.

VandenBrink died in a plane crash last summer.

Following the run, Katie spoke to the audience about the "shocking, monumental, life-shattering loss" she was experiencing and pointed out that people with epilepsy also face daily loss, which can include jobs, mobility, independence, freedom, friends and opportunities.

"We have all experienced loss in some form at some point in our lives and at different magnitudes," she said.

"Our losses, they hurt so much. So in honour of every single hurt and loss we have suffered in honour of Levi, and all of your loved ones you have lost, let's keep doing this. Let's beat epilepsy to ebb our pain and fight epilepsy to one day uncover the brilliance that will end epilepsy once and for all."

More than 200 people took part in the fundraiser, including Miss Canada 2019, Christine Jamieson and Anthony Farnell, Global News meteorologist, who brought Storm the Weather Dog.

Jamieson shared her experience living with epilepsy, which she has had for more than a decade. After seizures began, she went from being a straight-A student to a high school dropout having between 10 and 15 seizures a day. When she was 17, she was admitted to the hospital for two months as doctors did tests.

"Every night the doctor would come to my bed and say, Christine, we know there's something wrong with your brain. We see what's happening to you. The issue is we can't tell you where it is, what it is or if you're going to wake up to see tomorrow. And at 17 years old, I lost all hope," said Jamieson.

Once she was diagnosed, she found medications that reduced the frequency of seizures, but they've never fully left. She reminded the audience of the courage it takes people with epilepsy to go about daily activities like grocery shopping or going to work knowing that they could possibly have a seizure.

She urged people to continue researching and fundraising to find a cure.

"Please, don't let epilepsy [awareness] be a one-day thing," she said.

You can make donations and find out more at www.katiesrun.ca.

Right, more than 200 people came out on a sweltering July day for the eighth annual Katie's Run at the track in Haliburton. The event, which funds epilepsy research, raised more than $60,000.

ROCKIN' AND ROLLIN': Children's entertainer David Archibald kept on rolling Friday night as the featured performer at the Music by the Gull free concert. Much to the delight of the youngsters, he opened the evening wheeling through the audience on roller blades as he sang and played the guitar. The evening also included a fund-raising hot dog barbecue which garnered close to $800 for the Hospitals building projects. Unfortunately, due to a sudden rain storm, the performance was cut short. Music by the Gull will not be on this Friday, because of the Heineken Yard which will take place on Main Street July 30. The free concerts return August 6 with vocalist Zoe Chilco.

Board will offer adult education program

The "Three R's" are becoming accessible to Haliburton County residents young and old this fall, as the first adult education centre is opened at the former Victoria Street School in Haliburton.

The process of organizing and setting up the adult education centre is in its infancy, and Willis has begun meeting with Adult Education Principal Greg Einarson and Vice-Principal Ward Levine to iron out the problems encountered in setting up a totally new program. Everyone is confident that the programs will open by some time in September.

The expansion of the educational mandate of the school board has also created a partnership within the community as the Victoria Street School will be the home for the Sir Sandford Fleming College Academic upgrading program, headed by Bob Smith.

Students can attend the college courses first. Their programs are designed for individuals who may need specialized literacy or math skills. This training will be required before completing the high
